██████████ 1973

The preparations continue as planned during the last committee meeting of the ZPC. The research facility construction under Petrské náměstí, Prague, is finished, the scientific team has received their security clearance, with the exception of ██████████ ██████████, and is checking out their new home. Dr. ██████████ is asking for a stronger light in the operating room.

Prof. ██████████ reports insufficient supply of ██████████ ██████████, used in the synthesis of ██████████. I have transferred all of their complaints to the Department of Facility Management.

There was a significant risk of revealing the location of our research facility, so the construction staff had to be eliminated. Not a pleasant decision, but it had to be done, we cannot risk the information getting out into the hands of western intelligence agencies.

Together with Dr. ██████████ have begun the selection of suitable candidates from the ranks of ██████████ prisoners. It is yet unclear how many subjects we will need during the time of the necessary research, but it does not worry me, we have plenty of available resources. Before we begin, I would like to have filled at least cells P-01 to P-05.

If there are no further significant complications, the facility should be fully staffed and operational on ██████████ 1973. It seems nothing stands in the way of the next phase of Project Poltergeist.

Dr. J ██████████ Z ██████████
